Moderato Cantabile is a 1958 romance novel that established its author, the Frenchwoman Marguerite Duras, as a major critical and popular success. Written in French, the novel's title comes from musical directions on a piece of sheet music which translate roughly to "moderately and singingly.". The book tells the story of a rich industrialist's wife who enters into a friendship with a younger, unemployed man after she witnesses a horrifying act of violence.

Translated from the French by Richard Seaver. I've been keen to read more books by Marguerite Duras having loved The Lover a few years ago. Much of her work appears to be out of print, or at least difficult to track down, so when I saw Moderato Cantabile on the shelves at Waterstone's a month or so ago I just had to buy it. First published in 1958, it was republished by Surrey-based Calder (an imprint of Alma Books) last year.

Peter Brook acquired the rights to the successful Nouveau Roman 'Moderato Cantabile' from author Marguerite Duras as a vehicle for Jeanne Moreau with whom he had worked on stage in 'Cat on a Hot Tin Roof'. Brook's previous film 'The Beggar's Opera' had hardly been a resounding success which made it difficult to get funding for this latest venture.
